Defendants.

ORDER

Under the Federal Rules, discovery is not permitted until after the parties have conferred as required by Rule 26(f), except in certain specified circumstances, including by order of the court. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(d)(1). For good cause, a court may allow expedited discovery. See Me2 Prods., Inc. v. Does 1-16, No. 4:16-CV-279-FL, 2016 WL 7017268, at *1 (E.D.N.C. Dec. 1, 2016) (citations omitted). “Factors that courts consider under this test include the procedural posture of the case, whether the discovery requested is narrowly tailored, whether the party seeking the information would be irreparably harmed by waiting until after the parties conduct their Rule 26(f) conference, and whether the information sought would be unavailable or subject to destruction in the absence of expedited production.” Id. (citation omitted).

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants are using online media to distribute Plaintiff’s motion picture without consent or permission in violation of Plaintiff’s copyright, Compl. ¶¶ 34–35, and seeks identifying information about Defendants in order to effect service and litigate the infringement claims. The information sought is narrowly tailored to serve this purpose and will enable the parties to conduct the Rule 26(f) conference. Accordingly, for good cause shown, Plaintiff’s motion is allowed as follows:

(1) Plaintiff may serve on Time Warner and Century Link subpoenas for documents containing the name, permanent address, current address, telephone number, e-mail address, and MAC address of each Doe Defendant, and Plaintiff shall attach to each subpoena a copy of this order;

(2) Time Warner and Century Link are ordered to provide the documents sought in each subpoena in accordance with the terms of this order;

(3) Within seven days after the date of Plaintiff’s service on Time Warner or Century Link of a subpoena authorized herein, Time Warner or Century Link shall serve written notice of the subpoena on the Doe Defendant about whom documents are sought in the subpoena. If Time Warner, Century Link, or the Doe Defendant about whom documents are sought in a subpoena wishes to have the subpoena quashed or modified, a motion to quash or modify the subpoena must be filed with the court and served on counsel for Plaintiff prior to the return date for the subpoena (which is the date specified in the subpoena for production of the documents sought). The return date shall be no earlier than 21 days after the date of service by Plaintiff of the subpoena on Time Warner or Century Link;

(4) Time Warner and Century Link shall not produce any documents in response to a subpoena prior to the return date or, if any motions to quash or modify are filed with respect to the subpoena, unless and until an order is entered denying any such motions and permitting production pursuant to the subpoena (in which case production shall be in accordance with the terms of such order). Plaintiff shall notify Time Warner or Century Link of the filing of any motion to quash or modify a subpoena within one day after the filing of the motion. Time Warner and Century Link shall make appropriate arrangements to ensure that they have notice of any motions to quash or modify a subpoena before it produces any documents in response to the subpoena;

(5) Any documents produced to Plaintiff in response to a subpoena may be used solely for the purpose of prosecuting Plaintiff's infringement claims in this action; and

(6) Except as expressly provided herein, by further order of the court, or in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Plaintiff may not engage in discovery in this action prior to the conduct of a Rule 26(f) conference.

SO ORDERED, the 2 day of October 2017.
